White Insulating Blank Cover for 6 Modules

Brand: SOLERA

Reference: SOLERA TA1300B

The white pre-trolled insulating lid is a closing accessory for electrical distribution boxes. Made of plastic, it covers up to six free modules without additional installation. Its strip design facilitates handling and ensures effective sealing of the empty spaces within the board, optimizing the safety and organization of the electrical equipment through its direct application.

Description

The white pre-troached insulating lid is an essential component for sealing and protecting electrical distribution boxes. Made using plastic injection technology, it ensures superior mechanical resistance to adverse environmental impacts and conditions. Its design allows covering up to six free modules, ensuring the integrity of the electrical system in industrial, commercial or residential environments where a clean and safe finish is required.

Technical characteristics

- Material: High density plastic
- Colour: Pure white
- Module width: 6 units
- Type of manufacture: Pre-troking (injection)
- Function: Blind insulating lid
- Implementation: Electric distribution boxes

This technical element offers significant advantages by allowing the airtight closure of empty spaces on the board, avoiding the entry of dust, moisture or insects that could compromise operational safety. By covering six modules simultaneously, it optimizes the available space and facilitates orderly management of internal wiring, contributing to more efficient preventive maintenance and extending the service life of the electrical components housed.

The installation is simple and does not require specialized tools; it is enough to align the lid on the corresponding modules and ensure its fixation by means of the restraint mechanisms integrated in the chassis of the box. Its light handling allows a quick placement during the initial assembly phases or in repair interventions, always guaranteeing a professional and safe finish.
