Description

The 1/2" 100 Mesh mesh filter is an essential component in irrigation systems, designed to prevent pipe clogging by impurities. Its robust and efficient construction ensures optimal performance in various irrigation applications.

- Body made of polypropylene, a material known for its strength and durability under demanding conditions.
- Connections with male threads, facilitating simple and safe installation in different irrigation system configurations.
- Mesh filter with a 100 Mesh filtration capacity, guaranteeing the effective retention of particles and sediments that could compromise water flow.
- EAN13: 8432453030051, for easy identification and inventory management.
